Medical Program Proves Success

By Keith Levin

"Medical technology is basically an invisible profession," says Clementine Coleman, university professor, and coordinator of the medical technology program at Governors State University. Medical technology involves the performance of a wide range of laboratory tests that contribute to the direction, diagnosis, treatment and study of disease. Medical technologists work hand-in-hand with doctors to insure accuracy of diagnosis.

Since its accreditation last fall by the American Medical Association's committee on allied health and education, the GSU School of Health Professions' undergraduate program in medical technology has been successful for the university and the two hospitals involved. St. James in Chicago Heights and Ingalls Memorial in Harvey serve as clinical affiliates, sharing in the instruction of the 24 students enrolled in the program.

The medical technologist has been present in the hospital for as long as anyone can remember. To many patients, she/he was known as the nurse that awakened them every morning to draw blood. But according to Dr. Peter Fagen, head pathologist at St. James, the professional med tech has come a long way in the past 30 years.

After World War II, the demand for this specialty blossomed, and training increased significantly. Initially all programs were hospital based being accredited by the American Society of Clinical Pathologists (ASCP). Hospitals developed highly extensive one year internship programs. In the late 1950's these programs were affiliated with colleges and universities so students could earn a bachelor degree in medical technology.

When Governors State University became part of the south suburban area, the med tech programs that had been faltering in suburban hospitals had a chance to flourish again.

After more than two years of problem solving the AMA accredited the program in 1978. The medical technology program at GSU is based on a 2 plus 2 concept, (students spend time at the university and the hospital in both their junior and senior years). The program is open to students with 60 or more hours with course work in appropriate scientific subjects.

With the help of Mary Priebe at St. James and Camille Kozik at Ingalls, who act as educational coordinators, the first years of the program have run smoothly.

Today, Coleman says the program has reached its maximum student capacity of 24. She believes that could be doubled if laboratory equipment were available at Governors State. Fagen and Riley also see the possibility of doubling the size of the program by rotating students at the hospitals, but all agree now is not the time. Now is the time to strengthen what they have, they believe.

Because the program is so limited in size, students who are interested in the medical technology program are only admitted in the fall term of each year. Coleman advises that interested persons should make an appointment to see her about the program at least one year in advance of entrance. Professor Coleman can be reached at Governors State by telephoning (312) 534-5000, Ext. 2350 or 2483.

Chorale
Members
Needed

— Members of the University-Community Chorale at Governors State University begin preparations for the 1979-80 season under the direction of Dr. Rudolf Strukoff, university professor of music. Rehearsals are held on Monday evenings at 8:00 at the University on Stuenkel Rd. just east of Governors

Highway. Positions are still open in all voice ranges for persons who like to sing and have a basic knowledge of music reading. The first performance on Dec. 16 will include "Magnificat," by Vivaldi, "A Ceremony of Carols," by Britten and "Christmas Cantata," by Pinkham.

Theology For Lunch

"Theology for Lunch," the popular Wednesday noon discussion period sponsored by the Campus Ministry at Governors State University, is slated to start on Sept. 19 with a discussion of "Sun Symbolism — Some Reflections," led by Beth Hagens, university professor.

The meetings, held weekly from 12 noon to 1:00 p.m., are open to the public as well as students, faculty and staff at GSU.

Topics and leaders scheduled for the following six weeks are:

Sept. 26 — "Single Parenting," Richard Bennett, executive director, Lutheran Social Services/Northwest Indiana.

Oct. 3 — "The Jerusalem Experience," Janet Muchnik, former chairwoman of District 161 Board of Education, and Mel Muchnik, university professor.

Oct. 10 — "Matthew's Gospel: Getting a Perspective on Life," Sr. Jean Lenz, O.S.F., instructor, University of Notre Dame.

Oct. 17 — "Everyone Gets Wounded by Living; How Can Faith Help Us Heal?" Rev. Msgr. John R. Gorman, pastor, St. Michael's Church, Orland Park, and registered psychologist.

Oct. 24 — "My Experience at a Dr. Elizabeth Kuebler-Ross Life-Death Transition Workshop," Rev. Mr. Herbert H. Goeltzer, counselor, Family Counseling Agency, Will County.

Oct. 31 — "Tools for Fixing the City," Larry McClellan, university professor.

Application For Special Scholarship

Oct. 1 is the deadline for applications for a special $650 a year scholarship at Governors State University sponsored by the American Logistics Association.

To be eligible, an applicant must be a member of a household within a 50-mile radius of Chicago; must be a veteran with an honorable discharge or a federal civil service employee or a dependent of such persons; and must demonstrate an intent to utilize his/her skills in the practice or promotion of such logistical fields as business administration, accounting, procurement, distribution, agricultural sciences or similar disciplines.

The University office of financial aids recommends at least three applicants to the ALA for consideration each year, with the final selection being made by the association.

Application blanks may be obtained from the office of financial aid at Governors State University.

GSU Offers Workshop

How to identify, treat and cope with mental depression is the theme of a special all-day conference sponsored by Governors State University at Ambassador West Hotel, Chicago, on Saturday, Sept. 29, beginning at 9:00 a.m.

Five prominent experts in the field of mental health will discuss such topics as identifying and treating the depression syndrome in children, adolescents, women, men and the elderly. The conference is designed for both professional and non-professional persons.

Two classes of registration are available. For those not seeking college credit, the conference will conclude at 5:00 p.m. Those seeking one credit hour from Governors State University will be required to attend a post conference session from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m.

Leaders of the basic conference include Dr. Sushil Bagri, co-unit chief, Illinois State Psychiatric Institute, instructor at Rush Medical College and lecturer at University of Chicago; Dr. Lionel Corbett, assistant professor of psychiatry at Rush Medical College, attending physician at Rush-Presbyterian St. Luke's Medical Center and director of the Psycho-Geriatric Section, J. Bowman Health Center for the Elderly; Dr. Peter M. Fink, attending physician in general psychiatry, Rush-Presbyterian St. Luke's and former child psychiatric resident, Children's Memorial Hospital, Chicago; Dr.

June Singer, training analyst for the C. G. Jung Institute of Chicago with a private practice in analysis and psychotherapy; and Dr. Robert Zadyak, assistant professor of psychiatry and director of medical student education at Rush Medical College, attending psychiatrist at Rush-Presbyterian St. Luke's and director, Partial Hospitalization Program for Adults.

Dr. David Crispin, university professor at GSU, will conduct the post-conference seminar for credit-seeking participants.

Deadline for advance registration for "Workshop in Understanding and Dealing with Depression" is Sept. 21. Registration fee of $30 includes lunch. Additional fee for credit seeking participants is $33.25 for undergraduate and $35.25 for graduate students, not including the evening meal.

For further information, contact the Office of Special Programs, Governors State University, Park Forest South, IL 60466 or telephone (312) 534-5000, Ext. 2319.

Fellowship Programs For Minorities Students

The Committee on Institutional Cooperation has established two fellowship programs designed to increase the representation of members of minority groups among those who hold doctorates in the social sciences and the humanities.

Funded by grants from the Lilly Endowment, Inc., and The Andrew W. Mellon Foundation that total more than $1 million, the program will provide 25 two-year fellowships in the social sciences and 10 in the humanities for the 1980-81 academic year.

The Committee on Institutional Cooperation (CIC) is the academic consortium of 11 Midwestern universities—the Big Ten universities and the University of Chicago. Recipients of the fellowship may use them at any one of the 11 CIC universities to which they are admitted for graduate study.

The fellowships provide full tuition plus a stipend of $4,250 for each of two academic years. The universities will provide two additional years of support if Fellows make normal progress towards the competition. Graduate students outside the CIC may also apply.

Anyone who has or will receive a bachelor's degree by September, 1980 is eligible to apply.

Students are urged to apply as early as possible in the fall; application deadline is January 15, 1980. A one-step procedure combines application for the fellowship with application for admission to any of the CIC universities on a single form.

Anyone desiring detailed information about either fellowship program should write to: CIC Minorities Fellowship Program, Kirkwood Hall III, Indiana University, Bloomington Indiana 47405.

Between September 15 and January 15, prospective applicants from outside Indiana may call toll free between 9:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m. EST for information. The number is (800) 457-4420.

Now in its third year, the CIC fellowship Program in the social sciences makes awards in anthropology, economics, geography, history, political science, psychology, and sociology.

The humanities fellowships are available to students seeking doctorates in American studies, art history, classics, comparative literature, English, German, Linguistics, music, philosophy, religion, Romance languages, and Slavic languages.

Learning Exchange Offers Tutoring

Do you need academic tutoring? Would you like to improve your study skills or reading speed? Are you looking for tennis or backgammon partners? Or, would you like to teach something you already know. If so, The Learning Exchange can help you.

The Learning Exchange is a not-for-profit educational and recreational telephone referral service that matches teachers with students, students with teachers, and people with similar interests to each other. Over 30,000 Chicago-area residents are presently registered with The Learning Exchange and have explored over 3,000 different topics including study skills, speed reading, languages, music, sports, and arts and crafts.

To use the service, members call The Learning Exchange at 273-3383 and indicate what subjects they would like to teach, learn, or share. Trained telephone counselors then give callers the names and phone numbers of other people registered with The Learning Exchange whose interests are similar to theirs. Any arrangements concerning fees, meeting time and place, and what materials or texts will be used, are negotiated between the participants.

Founded in 1971 by a group of Northwestern University students, The Learning Exchange is based on the idea that there is an enormous wealth of under-utilized skills, talents, and interests in the community. Through telephone referrals, The Learning Exchange provides the connecting link between people who wish to teach, learn, or share an interest or skill.

For further information, call The Learning Exchange, day or evening, at 273-3383.

Master Mentors Move Midget Minds

by HENRIETTA CHASANOV

Now that master mentors have taken over the care and feeding of midget minds, those same midget minds keep lingering on vacation memories, when the major concern was the care and feeding of the master and his midgets. Yet we all need vacations from study as a respite to recharge tired batteries.

Remember: instead of chi squares, substituting reading anything for pleasure! The novels go two by two; one started upstairs, one down, and read concurrently. For instance, at one time there was "Spock Must Die!" by Blish, purchased for our youngest (Star) Trekkie and turning out to be not at all shabby reading for anyone. The other story then for our two story house was "At Swim-Two Birds," by Flann O'Brien with more food for thought, and a little heavier in the reading.

Vet News

erans Administration rules governing schools participating in the popular GI Bill education benefits program have been upheld for the third time by upper level federal courts.

The latest case, before the U.S. Tenth Circuit Court of Appeals, involved VA's attempt to hold two Colorado schools liable for education benefits overpayments.

The law makes an educational institution liable if the VA determines the overpayments were caused by GI Bill students, or false certification by the school.

Culture Vulture Series: $1.25

by Henrietta Chasanov

On Sunday, September 9, 1979 the Homewood Theater initiated its series of filmed musical events for their matinee audiences. Although it had been advertised in the local newspapers, barely fifty people paid $1.25 for three hours of entertainment on the grand opera scale.

For its premiere presentation, the Homewood chose "Rosenkavalier," by the twentieth-century romantic composer, Richard Strauss. Supposedly filmed at a live performance in Salzburg by the J. Arthur Rank Organization (sic), no tell-tale audience noise of coughing, sneezing—or even laughter at the more raucous parts of the opera, intruded on the sound track. Instead, the Homewood audience supplied the necessary (and unnecessary) sound effects, becoming quite vociferous in its appreciation at the end of the film: curtain calls by the cast and conductor, Herbert von Karajan.

The next two films to be presented at two o'clock in the afternoon will be dance films of the Royal Ballet with Dame Margot on successive Sundays. These will be advertised in the Chicago papers as well as the locals.

The theater itself lends itself quite well to the showing of such elegant presentations, with its dimly lit neoclassic statues and heraldic shields. Only the smell of the popcorn protects the illusion, or defeats it, depending on your orientation to popcorn.

The opening crowd (?) can testify, as the standard of excellence lowered with the curtain on the operatic performance. The prices almost tripled and a real crowd gathered outside to buy tickets for the regular evening (and presumably X-rated) showing. Apparently there was more demand for this.

There is no reason why all kinds of entertainment cannot find an audience in the southern suburbs. It is to be hoped that more people take notice of Sunday afternoon musical performances without commercial interruption, or extraneous fictional embroidery at the Homewood Theater, located on Dixie Highway north of 183rd Street, near Ridge Road. It surely bets watching the seventh game of the week in an everlasting football season.
